Murder in Greenville prompts precautions in Edwardsville

Sheriff's deputies restricted access to the Madison County Courthouse Tuesday as Judge Ann Callis-Rongey arrived for work.

The concern was that she could be a killer's next target.

Authorities said the man who they believe murdered Greenville City Attorney Thomas Meyer Monday may also be after Callis-Rongey.

Meyer, 65, was shot three times in the upper body with a shotgun as he left his Greenville law offices Monday evening. An autopsy Tuesday verified that he died of the wounds.

A multi-jurisdictional detective unit is focusing its search on 39-year-old Kelly L. McGinnis, a Greenville resident who recently lost a child custody case in Callis-Rongey's court. Meyer represented McGinnis' ex-wife in the case.

"We have eyewitnesses who saw McGinnis at the scene of the crime (Meyer's murder), sitting in a dark green Ford minivan about the time of the crime," said Lt. Rich Schardan, a Granite City officer assigned to the St. Louis Major Case Squad, which is investigating the case.

"McGinnis possibly could be a suspect, or he possibly could be a very good witness," Schardan said.

Capt. Don Bridick, chief of courthouse security, said he was phoned Monday by Chief Judge Nicholas Byron shortly after the murder became public. "We decided to take some extra precautions."

Guards at the courthouse had viewed photos of McGinnis and were aware of his physical description.

People visiting the Madison County courthouse Tuesday could use only one door to enter and exit the facility. Four sheriff's deputies kept watch and increased the sensitivity level on metal

Cueto enters not guilty plea

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Amiel Cueto was speechless as he left the federal courthouse in East St. Louis early Wednesday afternoon following his arraignment on conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges.

But the usually outspoken Belleville attorney's uncharacteristic silence was apparently not voluntary.

"If I talk to you, I'll be locked up," Cueto repeated over and over in response to questions from reporters gathered outside the courthouse.

Cueto, 47, of Rain Tree Woods in Belleville, pleaded not guilty to one count of conspiracy to defraud the U.S., five counts of obstruction of justice and one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Robert Romanik of Towne Hall Estates Drive in Belleville, also 47, an investigator for Cueto's law firm and former director of public safety in Washington Park, pleaded "not guilty" to one count of conspiracy to defraud the U.S. and one count of obstruction of justice.

The obstruction of justice charges have a penalty of up to 10 years in prison, three years supervised release and a $250,000 fine. The other charges each have a potential penalty of up to five years in prison, three years supervised release and a $250,000 fine.

The charges — listed in an indictment unsealed Friday — stem

Olympics worker looks back

Atlanta visit 'a great time'

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Karl Bischoff went all the way to the Olympics in Atlanta and never got to see one event.

But that's OK — he had fun anyway.

The Granite City resident was one of five local McDonald's employees picked to work at the company's operations in the Olympic Village.

Each McDonald's owner/operator in the St. Louis area nominated an employee for the trip, and five were chosen at random.

The 19-year-old business management major at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is a swing manager at the Pontoon Beach McDonald's.

"The Olympics were great," he said. "I had a great time, I enjoyed it, I had a blast."

Bischoff worked in one of five McDonald's restaurants in the Olympic Village from July 12-25, serving meals to athletes and coaches.

"I was a floor manager — I basically ran a shift," he said. Working about nine hours each day, they were able to keep their customers happy from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m., he said.

"We didn't pick up too much until after the opening ceremonies," he said. "I guess athletes worked their events and decided they were going to get off their diet."

He said they then went "from busy to busier."

"We served so many athletes,"

French fries fall from favor

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A new federal government requirement will result in fewer french fries being served at schools.

The Department of Agriculture recently enacted new food guidelines for school cafeterias.

For example, the USDA will now require that not more than 30 percent of calories on a school menu to come from fat.

Brad Eavenson, director of support services for Granite City School District 9, said district lunch menus have been gearing toward the change for the past few years.

"We have the software now to analyze our menus. We're at about 31 percent (fat content)," Eavenson said.

The USDA's new guidelines will also require a school to change its menu from a component-based system to a nutrition-based one.

In the past, a school was required to provide one meat product, a meat alternate, bread, fruit and at least one vegetable.

"According to the new requirements, a school now must provide an entree, which could be a sandwich or a casserole."

"It's going to take some work to get the high school kids into that frame of mind," Eavenson said.

"Hopefully, by the time the elementary kids get to high school they'll be thinking that way."

Eavenson said the district will offer french fries less frequently this year. It already offers no-fat salad

Cop charged in gun incident

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A Venice police officer has been charged with aggravated assault for allegedly threatening a Granite City man with a gun June 28.

The officer, Stephen M. Koelker, 27, was charged with the special misdemeanor in a warrant issued Wednesday.

Koelker turned himself in at the Madison County courthouse yesterday and was released on a $10,000 bond. Granite City City Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen said.

Koelker was not on duty just after 10 p.m. June 28 when he allegedly threatened and pointed a gun at a 25-year-old man in the 3100 block of the Kirkpatrick Homes housing project in Granite City, Ruebhausen said.

The victim told police a friend of Koelker then took the gun away from him.

Witnesses told police Koelker appeared to be intoxicated at the time of the alleged incident, Ruebhausen said.

Police have been investigating the case for more than a

Flood concerns won't stymie development

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Area residents concerned about potential flooding from development in Pontoon Beach were told by village officials they need to take their concerns to county and state officials.

While arguing with several in the audience, Trustee Mike Macek said the village had no intention of stopping development.

During the public comment period at Tuesday's board meeting, several residents asked what was being done about the Lake Drive Mobile Home Park.

In early June the board gave tentative approval to a plan that would allow expansion of the park and also bring lots up to village standards.

As part of the development, as new mobile homes are put in older homes would be removed and lots resized.

The plan called for approximately 41 lots, an increase from the present 35. Filers passed out by opponents said the developer planned to add 40 lots.

Trustee Mike Macek told the crowd that their concerns were being "taken under advisement," and that village officials had met the previous day with the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan & Regional Planning Commission.

The village recently approved spending $10,000 for a flood study from SIMAPC.

Macek and Trustee Randy Presswood told the those attending they needed to take their concerns to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

When a man from the audience said IDOT officials needed to be at the next village meeting, Macek told him that the village's questions had already been answered.

Sue Archer of Lake Drive asked if the village was going to halt issuing building permits.

Macek said the village was being unfairly blamed for a regional flooding problem.

"I'm in favor of issuing as many building permits as possible," he said.

After several more minutes of arguments, Mayor Glen Wilson ended the discussion and

Pontoon census to start this month

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Pontoon Beach village officials are busy putting together the final details of a special census set to begin in about two weeks.

If the census rounds up the additional 1,000 people village officials believe are in the village, it could mean approximately $100,000 more per year in tax revenue.

At Tuesday's meeting, the board agreed to set aside about $8,200 to pay for census workers, look into renting an office or apartment for them to work out of and pay for a mailing to village residents.

"We did look at space this morning, and I've got a couple more places to look," Village Clerk Mary Rowden said Wednesday morning.

Trustee Gus Falter, chairman of the Finance Committee, said Tuesday the Census Bureau is expected to start work on Monday, Aug. 26.

In addition to finding a place to work, the village must hire about 24 temporary workers.

The workers will make $6.50 per hour, and work for about 20 days.

Applicants must be 18 or 16 with a high school diploma and be a U.S. citizen.

Applications are available at the Pontoon Beach Village Hall.

Last year the board approved spending (See CENSUS, Page 7A)

the board went into executive session to discuss personnel.

After coming back into regular session, the board approved hiring a full-time police dispatcher.

Group is raising money for poet

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Friends of a Granite City woman who won a poetry contest are trying to raise money for her to attend a convention in late September.

Felicia Locke of Granite City said the group is trying to raise $1,000 so Carolyn Ellis-Stokes can attend a convention in Anaheim, Calif. in late September.

"It's the chance of a lifetime for her," Locke said. "If we can come up with $1,000 we should be OK."

Stokes was recently recognized by the Famous Poets Society for her poem "Self-Seeker". Her poems have also been published in two books — Famous Poets of the Universe.

At the convention, Stokes will receive a trophy, be conducted into the society's hall of fame and compete with other poets for $15,000 in cash prizes.

Stokes began writing poetry when she was eight, giving most of her work to relatives and friends in letters and cards.

Last year a friend convinced her to enter a poetry contest which she won.

Stokes said she was "shocked and excited" when her first poem was published.

"I called my sister at work," she said. "I was talking so loud she pulled the phone from her ear — everyone in her office heard me."

Stokes said she always knew her poems would be heard, but never by so many people.

"My words come from the heart; my inspiration is from Carolyn Ellis-Stokes family, friends and life's experiences," Stokes said.

"Together they are my blessings and my curse; for many reasons some people are more interested in hearing the negative; others are afraid to love and be loved."

Locke said the group is trying to raise the money by Sept. 15, and a bank account has been set up for Stokes.

"For information call 831-3635 or 451-7255."

Carol's comments

Conventions bring on laughs

(This column is written by Edwardsville resident Carol Clarkin.)

Carol Clarkin

There's a special place in my heart for anyone who can make me laugh, not an especially difficult thing to do since I find a lot of things amusing and a few absolutely hilarious.

Such as...

Small Cory Stassi, 6-years-going-on-26, whose uncle recently gave him a plastic water pistol. Claiming the new toy would hold 10 gal. of water, Cory was frustrated in efforts to prove his claim when his mother refused to allow him to fill it, but nevertheless began careening around the room, blasting away with the empty gun.

Said mom diverted his attention just long enough for a woman friend (50-odd-going-on-5) to sneak up behind the kid and blast HIM with something called Sizzurp.

Cory, stunned and amazed, glared accusingly at Mom and, like a true Good Fellow, shouted, "You set me up!"

I howled, as did everyone else in the room.

Or the recent-morning which had started badly until one of my two Pecos told me the story of the fellow who went into a bar and ordered six double shots of Chevas, asked that they be lined up in front of him and gulped them down one after another.

"Boy, you sure drank those in a hurry!" the bartender said and the guy replied, "You would too if you had what I have."

"What have you got?" the bartender asked and the man tossed a few coins on the bar, said, "Oh, about 30 cents, and scurried out."

Maybe not great, but enough to turn my morning around. This being easily amused, I have been anticipating this week and those to follow as an antidote to the usual tedium of the dog days.

Hang the red, white, and blue bunting, set the three circus rings in place, and send in the clowns! The long-awaited political conventions have begun and talk about a barrel of monkeys!

It matters not which party's convention, the speaker resembles the political pundit in "Shoe" (any making just about as much sense), and those duller-than-dust spokesmen for state delegations during the actual vote, jockeying for position in order to be the "great state" (or commonwealth) of you-name-it, to put the nominee over the top.

There probably won't be any good floor fights this time around. "Unity" being the name of the game, and I shall abase them.

They're so reminiscent of sad-faced clowns, beating each other with rubber bladders. Ringling Brothers would hire the lot without a second thought.

But before I give myself over to the enjoyment of the fun and games of the conventions, I'll remind myself of the wisdom of my favorite political satirist, P.J. O'Rourke, who is also my favorite conservative (please take note, Gary).

In the final pages of his most recent book, "Enemies List," he goes straight for the jugular, as is his habit.

Running for office, he reminds us, is "fundamentally a matter of telling untruths. In order to get elected, a politician has to claim that the government can make you richer, smarter, taller, better looking and take six strokes off your golf game. And he has to claim that government can do all these things for free, or at least very cheaply. As a result of these various factors, politicians are — and I'd like to put this as kindly as possible — lying, ignorant bums."

Further, O'Rourke asks, would you hire any of them to cut your lawn? "Dole does a tidy job, but he never gets far. He keeps wandering away to talk to the neighbors about cutting THEIR lawn."

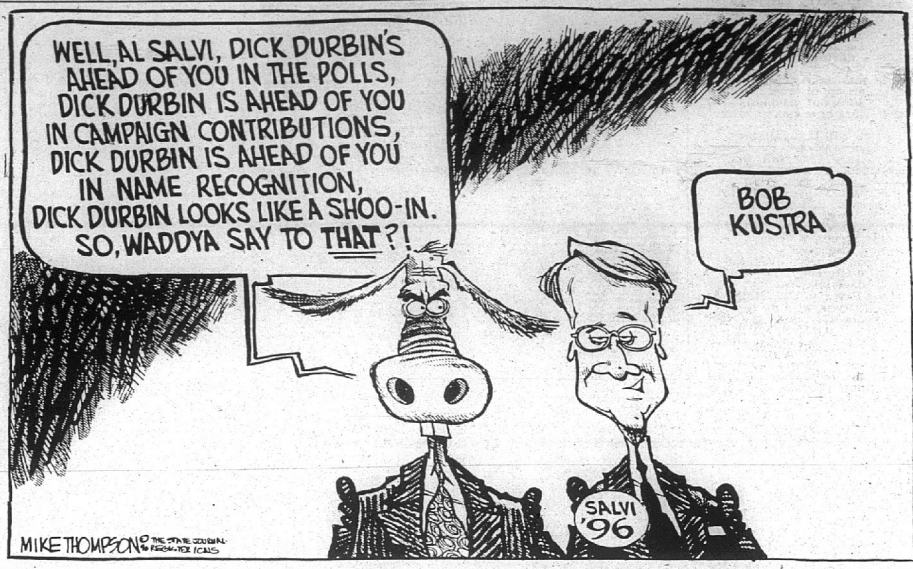

"Gore hasn't gotten started yet. He's talking to the cat about dandelions being an endangered species."

"Gingrich is using the Toro to carve out NEWT in big letters in the grass."

"And Clinton couldn't make up his mind whether to do the front first or the back. Should he use a push mower or the power kind? Rotary or reel? Trim, then rake? Or the other way around? Maybe fertilizer and reseed instead of mowing?"

"So he gave up and he's inside raiding the refrigerator and flirting with your baby sister."

A conservative could have told you: If you want something done right, do it yourself. Bull's eye, as usual. Maybe I'll forget the TV coverage and just rent a video comedy.

Letters to the editor

Petrillo wrong on recycling

TO THE EDITOR:

In response to Mr. Petrillo's recent comments in your newspaper criticizing Madison County for abiding by the state recycling mandate, I would like to point out inaccuracies in his statements.

First of all, Madison County is just being responsible in doing its job by complying with the state law. The state legislature responded to a state landfill crisis by passing the law. We are doing our part in addressing the problem.

Petrillo stated that Madison County is one of only a handful of counties in the state abiding by the law. This is incorrect. In fact, Madison County was one of the four that did not.

The 1995 mandate applies to the 17 Illinois counties over the population of 100,000. These counties represent 80 percent of the state's population. All but four counties exceeded the 25 percent recycling mandate last year. Madison County was one of the four that did not.

Earlier efforts to meet the state mandate were unsuccessful when only a handful of communities started recycling programs. The county adopted an ordinance in 1984 after conducting public hearings across the county that included input by city officials. Communities were given a two-year period to plan their recycling programs.

The program has been met with strong success across the county during its first month in existence. Communities are experiencing overwhelming volumes of recycling. In Alton, for example, participation rates have exceeded 80 percent during the first month and volumes have overwhelmed their hauling company.

Finally, let me say that the need to recycle is not just in response to a state law, it is to protect us as residents, our children and our natural resources. Trash, whether buried, burned, or polluted, is an environmental. The less we bury or burn, the less we pollute the environment.

Landfills are overcrowded. Residents do not want new landfills sited in their backyards. Residents across the county have very favorably responded to the new recycling program. The materials are being used to make new products instead of being buried in the ground. We are all doing our part in addressing the problem.

Tobacco fight is continuing

TO THE EDITOR:

As a Volunteer for the American Lung Association of Illinois, the nation's oldest voluntary health agency, I am writing to commemorate the one-year anniversary of the most aggressive and courageous public policy proposal ever put forward to deal with the epidemic of tobacco use.

On Aug. 10, 1995, Dr. David Kessler, chief of the federal Food and Drug Administration, unveiled a plan to limit youth access to cigarettes and smokeless tobacco and markedly reduce the appeal of these cancer-causing products to America's youth. Now, we eagerly await FDA's next step.

Almost every American has been personally affected by the loss of a family member, friend, co-worker or neighbor to tobacco-related illnesses. In fact, every year, such illnesses claim nearly 420,000 lives in this country.

As a Lung Association Volunteer, I am especially aware of the need for government leadership in deterring young people from falling into tobacco's deadly trap.

Public policy must address the provocative marketing strategies the powerful tobacco industry uses to reach and influence these vulnerable children.

Recent studies reveal that tobacco advertising is three times more effective on children as compared to adults. The FDA proposal seeks to address this issue.

Parents, grandparents, health care providers, teachers and kids everywhere support the FDA plan to protect our children from the single deadliest, most preventable cause of death in America: Tobacco.

It's time now for the FDA to issue its final proposal so the necessary work can get under way to ensure a future full of healthier lungs and longer lives.

It's time for a change

TO THE EDITOR:

For the last three decades, we've been in a downward spiral with our economy. Factories have been closing and jobs have been leaving. Drive around town and what you mostly see are once prosperous areas now deserted. We need new leadership to get things going again. We need

Jim Mihalic. Mihalic has worked both as a laborer and as a supervisor. He also was the executive vice president of the Riverbend Growth Association. Mihalic understands labor, management and community leaders, and he will be able to bring all three together to create jobs and growth. This is significant, given that the last three decades have seen a split between labor, management and community leaders, which has caused the job flight. Clearly, we need someone to close the divisions and bring people together, and that person is Jim Mihalic.

Davis' record is excellent

TO THE EDITOR:

I think that it is time for someone to tell the truth about State Rep. Steve Davis' record. If anyone would take the time to research his record, they would find that he voted against a pay raise for himself, judges and constitutional officers.

Further study would bear out the fact that Davis voted to keep murderers in prison for 100 percent of their time, voted to notify communities, schools and child-care facilities when a convicted child molester or murderer moves in their neighborhood, voted to save the taxpayers two million dollars per year by eliminating a program that gave prisoners free stamps and voted to take away prisoners' cable TV and pornographic material.

Locally, he was instrumental in getting DCCA grants for Gordon Moore Park and the new Marina in Alton. I could write for a long time lauding Davis' voting record. He has proven to be an advocate for our senior citizens, our children and working families. When he is needed, he is there for his constituents. His office is noted for the excellent customer service that is provided on a daily basis.

GOP could do better

TO THE EDITOR:

One has to wonder about the bigwigs in the Republican Party. They were determined to have Bob Dole as their candidate this year. My question is, why? He has had his chance twice before and came up short. So, why did they feel that he was the person to run now?

There are too many young and hardworking Republicans in the House and Senate who would make a better run at the White House than Dole. One name that comes readily to mind is John Kasich of Ohio. Anyone who has seen and heard this man knows he has what it takes and will probably be a candidate in the future.

I not only think Dole is a bad choice for president, I believe he, along with most members of Congress who have been in office more than six years are not servants of the people but are self-serving and are part of the reason we are in the mess we call the deficit.

The news media need to wake up and hold these people accountable for what they say and do.

Ragweed season starts

Allergies can be treated

By Chris Bosen
Correspondent

With the start of ragweed season this week comes prime time for allergy sufferers in the area.

But there is help for dealing with the coughing, wheezing, and shortness of breath associated with asthma, even for athletes.

Dr. Barry Zeffren, a board certified allergist with offices in Glen Carbon, Granite City and Alton, says that with proper treatment an athlete with asthma can still perform at a high level.

"In the past we would have people with asthma sit out of sports," Zeffren said. "Now we encourage people very strongly to participate in sports."

Asthma, which is derived from the Greek word for "panting," can be brought on by several triggers. They can be non-allergic, such as weather conditions; or allergic, such as pollen; infections like chest colds; and exercise.

"In terms of asthma in general and in terms of having multiple triggers, this is a lousy place to be for asthmatics."

Recent television exposure of Olympic athletes dealing with exercise-induced asthma has shed light on how an active person can deal with asthma.

Gold medal swimmers Tom Dolan and Amy Van Dyken could have been immortalized on Wheaties boxes with inhalers. Both have asthma, as does four-time Olympian Jackie Joyner-Kersey.

Zeffren says that the Olympics are just part of the reason why more people are becoming aware of asthma and proper treatments.

"In general, people are more conscious about health and we've become a more active society," Zeffren said.

Area high school athletes starting practice for fall scholastic sports may find they have more in common with those Olympians than they thought.

Thanks to new medications and the improvement of old ones, however, there is definitely help available, some of which can benefit the athlete immediately.

"There can be immediate success just by starting medication," Zeffren said. "The better you keep the allergic part under control the better off you will be."

While allergy shots can be used as treatment, bronchodilators or "inhalers" are the most common form of medication for asthmatics.

"I have four children and they all have exercise-induced asthma," Zeffren said. "They have played softball, basketball, soccer, and hockey and they all use their puffers."

Determining whether a child is likely to get asthma may be as simple as looking at the family tree, Zeffren said.

"Asthma is a genetic disease that runs in families," Zeffren said. "It may show up at 2 or 50 and the younger it presents itself the more likely it has a genetic association."

Whether triggered by the heat and humidity, the mold and pollen, or winter sports in practice, asthma will have a number of athletes putting their inhalers to work overtime the next few weeks.

Allergy season doesn't peak until Labor Day. For athletes struggling through this time, the Olympics should have provided some inspiration, inhalers and proper treatment.

medication, and Dr. Zeffren has the motivation.

"Athletes should never feel limited because of their asthma," Zeffren said. "They can still perform at a maximum level."

Women's Health Seminar Sept. 14

The Women's Center of Metro East Ltd., located in Granite City, has announced plans for its third annual Women's Health Seminar, to be held Saturday, Sept. 14.

This year's seminar will address health issues for women of all ages. Dr. Gerard J. Mahan, president and founder of the Women's Center of Metro East Ltd., will address the causes and treatment of premenstrual syndrome. Dr. J. Hoon Kim will discuss the benefits of vaginal birth after caesarean. Penny Kennedy, RNC, OCN, nurse practitioner, will outline the causes and treatment of vaginitis.

The Women's Center of Metro East Ltd. is pleased to have Keith Neuber, MSLCSW, family therapist and author of If You're Not Having Fun, You're Doing It Wrong, as guest speaker this year.

"Keith Neuber is an uplifting and energizing motivational speaker," said Terry Malnar, practice manager of the Women's Center of Metro East Ltd. "He will have everyone leaving with a smile on their face and a renewed spirit."

The seminar will be held at Sunset Hills Country Club in Edwardsville from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. A continental breakfast is provided for participants.

Exhibitors promoting services and merchandise for women will be available during the seminar. Attendance prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the program.

The annual seminar is offered free to the public. Women interested in attending the seminar should call the Women's Center of Metro East Ltd. to register by Sept. 4 at 877-2330 or 692-0868.

14 GCHS students win leadership awards

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

It is far too often that we read about teen-agers who have broken laws or have done some other mischief that has landed them in trouble.

The fact is that the vast majority of high school-age youth are law abiding citizens who cause no trouble. That is why we're happy to feature 14 teens — all entering their senior year at Granite City High School — whose accomplishments in the classroom and elsewhere reflect positively on the community.

The teens recently participated in the Greater Belleville Area Youth Leadership Salute, which honors outstanding leaders from the high school graduating class of 1997. They are among about 200 students from 20 area high schools selected for the program, sponsored by Belleville Area College, Magna Banks, the Suburban Journals and Cedarleaf Photography.

At the local level, the students are recognized for their accomplishments through the "Winners Seminar," a portrait panel tour, positive publicity and a reception at BAC.

The two-day "Winners Seminar" provides training in goal-setting, self motivation, time management techniques and the development of leadership skills.

The portrait panels, containing portraits and biographical sketches of the selected students, have been displayed at St. Clair Square Mall and various Magna Bank locations.

The outstanding youth leaders will be awarded educational scholarships and will have an opportunity to attend the national "Town Meeting On Tomorrow," to be held at Washington University in October. Students from the Tri-Cities area selected to participate, along with their high school activities and honors, include:

Charles Stepanek — junior varsity golf, Science Club, Social Studies club, Secondary Honors Club, roller hockey team and National Honor Society applicant. He plans to study law or science in college.

Sarah Signall — Student Council alternate, yearbook staff, softball team, Red Peppers, Environmental Club, Science Club, Social Studies Club (secretary), church youth group (president) and Win With Wellness team. She is a caterer for Jerry's Cafeteria and plans to attend Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for general studies and then to study commercial or graphic art at the Chicago Art Institute.

Brad Jacob Neidhardt — varsity football (honorable mention all-conference), Student Council, debate, National Forensics League, National Honor Society, All American Scholar and Varsity Club. He plans to pursue degrees in political science and law.

Patrick Mullen — Opinion editor of the High World, Environmental Club (treasurer), Quill and Scroll, Science Club and Social Studies club. He plans to attend college and pursue a career in writing or journalism.

John Mills — ALPHA Peer Leader, tennis team, soccer team, golf team, Science Club, Social Studies Club (treasurer), altar boy (St. Elizabeth Parish) and Squires. He plans to pursue a career in a science field after attending the University of Illinois.

Steve Mathes — lead roles in Homecoming and Spring plays as well as Winter musical, varsity speech and debate, Science Club, Social Studies Club, Environmental Club, freshman and sophomore basketball, author of state-qualifying original play, St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, community theater and junior varsity cross country. He plans to major in criminal justice/psychology in college and work for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

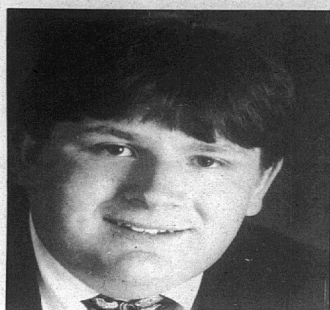

Sangeeta Kumar — Student Council, ALPHA Peer Leader, Win With Wellness team, I Dare You leadership award, basketball team, tennis team, National Honor Society, JETS team, math team, Science Club, Environmental Club and Varsity Club.

Andrew M. Harris — National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll, Fellowship of Christian Athletes (vice president), ALPHA Peer Leader, yearbook staff, Photography Club, youth council First Assembly of God Church and 1995 first runner-up "Mr. Lake Williamson." He plans to attend college and live a life pleasing to God.

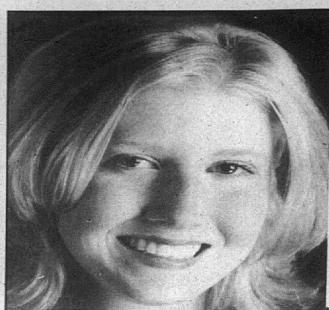

Cynthia Gorka — varsity tennis, yearbook staff, Environmental Club, Science Club, Social Studies Club, honor roll and National Honor Society. She plans to attend St. Louis University and pursue a degree and career in pediatrics.

Eric Edwards — honors program, soccer team (1995 most improved player), honorable mention all-area soccer team, Varsity club, varsity baseball, youth soccer team coach and referee. He plans to attend college and pursue a career in engineering.

Amanda Crabtree — editor-in-chief of High World, Student Council (president), ALPHA Peer Leader, Win With Wellness team, 1995 and 1996 Gateway Young Achiever, Quill and Scroll, JETS, Science Club, Varsity Club, Environmental Club, National Honor Society, basketball cheerleader (junior captain) and tennis team. She plans to attend college and pursue a career in business and finance.

morning as attorneys for the defendants and prosecution negotiated the terms of Cueto and Romanik's release on bond. Cueto, U.S. Marshal and others in the courtroom joked and made small talk while awaiting the arraignment.

The document outlining the terms of the defendants' release was sealed in a high-security, unusual procedure.

Venezia, 53, was also named in the indictment and charged with one count of conspiracy to defraud the U.S., three counts of obstruction, one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and one count of perjury.

Venezia was arraigned separately. According to the indictment, Cueto, Venezia, Romanik and others conspired to defraud the government by impeding, impairing, obstructing and defeating and attempting to impede, impair, obstruct and defeat the FBI, the grand jury and the U.S. District Court in their investigative and judicial responsibilities.

Specifically, the indictment alleges that the defendants interfered with the investigation and prosecution of B&H Vending-Ace Music Corporation's multi-million dollar illegal gambling operation by:

- Attempting to discredit Bonds Robinson, a state liquor control officer assisting the FBI in its investigation of B&H;
- Striving to influence information to state and federal investigators;
- Filing false court pleadings in connection with the legal proceedings before the grand jury, the district court, the appeals court and the Supreme Court;
- Attempting to manipulate the state and federal court proceedings for the benefit of the gambling racket;
- Preventing not to recall information when questioned by the grand jury;
- Corruptly advising potential grand jury witnesses not to testify; and

Offering political rewards to a public official to encourage cooperation in the scheme.

The indictment alleges Cueto was a "silent partner" in Venezia's operation, receiving three payments of $5,000 cash each as his share of the gambling profits.

Cueto has said he and Venezia own stock in some of the same companies, but has denied being Venezia's business partner. Venezia's trial earlier this year, Milan Venezia — the defendant's son — testified that he was legally the president of MTV Entertainment Group — the company that operated Main Street and Cheesecake nightclubs in Washington Park, Exposed nightclubs in Centerville and Stages in Madison.

— but that his father actually ran the business. He said that his father showed him how to figure and collect payoffs from gambling machines placed in taverns at a profit even with tavern owners. During a typical week at Main Street, Milan said, $7,000 to $12,000 was wagered in illegal gambling. B&H's was approximately $3,000, he said, adding that similar amounts were wagered at Cheeks, Exposed and Stages.

Milan Venezia also implicated Cueto in the business, testifying that Cueto was a "silent partner." Milan said his father eased concerns of tavern owners by promising to pay bail and fines for gambling arrests and by assuring them that Cueto had 15 of 17 St. Clair County judges "in his pocket."

When the bribe attempt failed, according to the indictment, Cueto had an "undisclosed business partner, then a public official" offer to use his political influence to have St. Clair County Sheriff David H. Robinson removed from office. Haida would convince St. Clair County Board Chairman John Baricovic to name Cueto as Haida's successor. Cueto sought the position to discredit Robinson, the indictment states.

Also during the Venezia trial, Dennis Dehn, who formerly owned Moja's Tavern on East B Street in Belleville and pleaded guilty to conspiracy to promote gambling charges in April 1995, testified that Venezia also talked him about investing in a Granite City liquor store with Cueto and U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello of Belleville.

Costello also testified he previously owned a convenience store in Granite City with Cueto and his wife. However, Costello has said he had no business dealings with Venezia.

District Judge William Stieh, the judge who presided over the earlier Venezia trial, is slated to preside over the Cueto and Romanik trial on a date yet to be determined.

about $55,000 for the census. Board members had considered a census for several months because they thought the official population — 4,013 according to the 1990 census — was too low.

Falter, like other village officials in the past, said he expected the new census to show at least 1,000 more people in the village. In 1983 the village annexed the Holiday Mobile Home Park, which contains approximately 255 mobile homes. In the past, village officials said that annexation alone boosted the village's population by about 500.

Every year, an additional person the village finds will mean about $86 more per year for the village. The board also approved up to $2,000 to rent furnishings and a copier for the census workers and up to $1,000 for a special mailing to village residents.

Koelker was scheduled to take a polygraph test in Springfield earlier this month in connection with the incident, but failed to show up for the test, Assistant Granite City Police Chief Kip Pomeroy said.

Koelker, a Venice police officer and the son of City Comptroller Roseann Koelker, did not report for work but called off sick, Pomeroy said.

Venice Police Chief James Newsome could not be reached for comment.

Clippers, Buds brace for playoff showdown

Mon-Clair rivals to square off in Waterloo

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Jamie Hogan goes after a pitch during Saturday's 10-6 victory over Sauget in the first round of the Mon-Clair League playoffs.

After Saturday's 10-6 win over Sauget, Clippers pitcher Darin Hendrickson had some strong words for the Waterloo Buds.

"You tell them that we'll play them anywhere, on any field, at any time," he said. "If they want to play us any day of the week, we'll play them."

Hendrickson was steaming after the game, even though he had helped propel the Clippers into the second round of the Mon-Clair League playoffs.

And Hendrickson, along with the rest of the Clippers, will get that chance to play the Buds at 6:30 p.m. Friday night in Waterloo in the first game of the double-elimination round of the playoffs. The Buds advanced with a 3-3 victory over Fairview Heights on Saturday.

In the second game Friday, East Alton will play Valmeyer at approximately 8:45 p.m. in a contest that could last until after midnight. Both teams feature good hitting but not much pitching.

But the Clippers and Buds feature some of both, and that's why the two clubs have sat atop the Mon-Clair standings for so many years.

Over that time, the teams have developed quite a rivalry. In their only matchup this season, the two split a doubleheader at Waterloo on a day which featured skirmishes between the two teams, the umpires, and the fans and the umpires.

Now Waterloo manager Vern Moehrs, who has fired the Clippers up before with some statements, has done it again.

"There were some words that were said after we forfeited (Aug. 4 at Valmeyer), by some other people, and that's irritated some of us," said player-manager Daren DePew.

"There's a large number of us that aren't like that. We don't forfeit. So we're going into this playoff thing just a little irritated. We're coming to play."

"I personally don't know what was said. Darin was in a conversation with someone, and heard the Waterloo manager say some things about the Granite City team. Apparently, the only team we can beat is a team that has a 60-year-old pitcher."

That remark apparently stems from the Clippers' dominating 32-1 win over the St. Louis Printers in the Valmeyer Tournament last month. The Printers, obviously short of pitching, did use one elderly gentleman as one of their relievers.

Of course, the Clippers defeated other teams as well that weekend, and the truth is Moehrs and the Buds chose not to participate in the Valmeyer tourney.

"Friday night's going to be a very interesting ballgame," DePew said.

In the other big news from Saturday, the crowd on hand for the game was abuzz regarding the poor field conditions at Dal Maxville Field.

The field, once one of the best in Granite City, now is among the worst. Most of the grass is gone from the infield, with a few clumps sticking up here and there, just waiting for a ground ball to deflect past somebody's glove.

In fact, the Clippers were playing just their third home game of the year, and first at Maxville Field. One doubleheader this year was played on Diamond 2 at Wilson Park, which is next to Maxville Field.

Undaunted, the Clippers played on the field Saturday, and played well.

"We like to play here, and we had a nice crowd here today, so the fans like it too," DePew said. "It didn't matter what condition this field was going to be in, we were going to play here."

"We just like the atmosphere."

Several members of the Clippers, along with many interested baseball people in Granite City, have efforts to fix up the field — including the addition of an outfield fence, bleachers and a sprinkler system. But the efforts have been slow to materialize.

"We're going to work with the Park District, and we're (See CLIPPERS, Page 3B)

Poelker, staff aim to revive 'Cats

By Scott Marlon
Staff writer

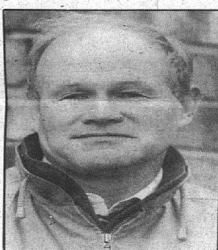

After an absence of 46 years, football has returned to McKendree College.

The Bearcats, under the direction of former Millikin University coach Carl Poelker, held their first practice Thursday morning. On Wednesday, Poelker held a team meeting after players checked into their dormitories and were issued equipment.

"This is the fun part," said Poelker, a Belleville native who spent 27 years at Millikin, including the past 14 years as head coach. "We can't wait to get our hands on some football players."

"We open the season Sept. 7 at Lindenwood College (in St. Charles, Mo.). It's going to be a little different playing a night game on (artificial) turf with a bunch of 18-year-olds, but I'm looking forward to it."

The recruiting efforts of Poelker and his staff paid off, as 129 players were on McKendree's preseason roster.

Carl Poelker
McKendree coach

"It's been a team effort," Poelker said. "It's really nice to be in a situation where you're not rowing the boat upstream. The administration, housing, the registrar's office, Harry (athletic director and men's basketball coach Harry Statham) — they're all pulling together and doing whatever it takes to get things done. If that atmosphere hadn't existed, this couldn't have happened."

Poelker's eight assistant coaches have played a key role in starting the football program.

"There's a lot of diversity — we have a blend of youth and experience," Poelker said. "Guys like (ex-Belleville West athletic director and assistant coach) Pete Hensel and (ex-Belleville East head coach) Dean Renn are technically part-time, but they work full-time."

"Our full-time coaches have other duties as well. Jeff Fisher works admissions. Tim Funk is in charge of the fitness center and Matt Gomic (a former standout at Alhloff High School and Washington University) is the strength coach for all athletes."

Kings Point offering junior program

Kings Point Racquet Club in Belleville has announced its junior tennis program schedule for 1996-97. It features four levels of play:

— Little star players (ages 4-8): these classes will be one hour once a week. Children will have an introduction to tennis with fun and games, which will concentrate on hand-eye coordination, how to handle a racket and the basic tennis strokes. The cost is $56 for seven weeks and $96 for 12 weeks.

— Junior development players (ages 9-13): students will meet once a week for 1½ hours. They will work on full-court stroke mechanics and serves with concentration on half-court consistency drills. This includes ground strokes, serves, volleys, singles and doubles positioning during play and learning to keep score.

The cost is $94 for seven weeks and $144 for 12 weeks.

— Junior championship players (ages 14-18): students will meet once a week for 1½ hours. Emphasis will be on ground strokes and volleys with control and consistency, short and deep volleys and serves with control. Players will learn basic fundamentals of lobs, drop shots, approach shots and overheads. Basic doubles strategy will be covered. The cost is $94 for seven weeks and $144 for 12 weeks.

— Junior elite (tournament level players): will meet a total of two to three hours a week. Students will be trained to use topspin and slice ground strokes while maintaining control and consistency in their game. Special attention will be given to volleys, approach shots and overheads with regard to match play, as well as perfecting lobs and drop shots. The fundamentals of topspin, slice and flat serves and when to use them will be taught. The importance of fitness training will be stressed.

The cost is $175 for seven weeks and $296 for 12 weeks. Players in the junior elite and junior championship levels are eligible for a players pass. This will entitle them to have free walk-on court times until 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. No courts may be reserved with this pass.

Sessions are Sept. 16 to Nov. 2, Nov. 11 to Feb. 22 and March 3 to April 19. Application deadlines, respectively, are Sept. 8, Nov. 3 and Feb. 25. Names submitted after the deadline will be marked "late" and put on a waiting list. For more information, call Kings Point at 277-7715.

Mollet takes points lead with victory at Gateway

Allen Mollet of Granite City continues to be one of the dominant racers at Gateway International Raceway, as he took first place in the Pro Division on Aug. 11, putting him first in overall points.

Mollet's 673 points puts him 10 ahead of Tom Robinson of Fairview Heights, who placed 10th in the Pro Division races on Sunday.

Ricky Thomas of Arnold, Mo., placed second Sunday, followed by Jim Young of Cahokia. Tim Haefner of Collinsville was fourth, and Don Rauch of Ferguson, Mo., placed fifth.

East Rogers of Collinsville took top honors in the Super Pro Division, with a pair of Spanaway Lake residents — Pete Jones and Doug Graf — coming in second and third. Although Mollet did not place in the Super Pro event (See GATEWAY, Page 3B)

Waterloo edges past Fairview 5-3

By Karen Vartanian
Staff writer

Top-seeded Waterloo took a big step toward reclaiming its Mon-Clair title Saturday, defeating Fairview Heights 5-3.

The Buds' win moved them into the double elimination round of the playoffs held next weekend at Gibault Field. Even with the victory, manager Vern Moehrs was not satisfied with Waterloo's performance.

"We were lucky to win today," Moehrs said. "We didn't play very smart. It was a lot tougher than we had anticipated."

Indeed, Eighth-seeded Fairview Heights (3-20) carried a 2-1 advantage into the seventh, before the Buds (31-6) erupted for four tallies.

Mark Vogel began the uprising with a bunt single and moved to second on Clay Moehrs's single.

Nell Flala then grounded to first. Falcon first baseman Brett Kisro forced Moehrs at second as Flala narrowly beat the return throw.

With runners at the corners, Mike Wirth again tested Kisro. Attempting the force at second, Kisro plunked Flala in the back. As the ball rolled into left field, Flala continued to third and Wirth raced into second.

That play proved costly because John Wahlig followed with a run-scoring single to scoring Flala. Wirth also scampered home when Falcon rightfielder Mike Alward uncorked an errant throw. Wahlig ended up at third.

After an out, John Baxmeyer legged out an infield hit as (See WATERLOO, Page 3B)

Trivial matters

1. The Southwestern Conference has expanded to eight teams this season, including 1995 Class 5A state playoff qualifier Edwardsville. Which area conference qualified a state-record five teams to the state playoffs in 1994?

2. Monmouth Yorkwood holds the state record for most shutouts in one season (11, set in 1983). What was the last team to go through an entire season unscathed?

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

The purpose of a closing argument in a trial is to allow the attorney to summarize his case and attempt to convince the jury to decide the case in a particular way. Several Illinois cases stand for the proposition that closing arguments are not to make reference to a defendant's possible criminal conduct in the future. To suggest future criminal conduct could be regarded as reversible error on appeal and result in the jury's verdict being overturned.

In one recent case, a defendant was convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol after a jury trial. He was placed on probation for a period of one year. In his closing argument, the State's Attorney made this statement, "This case is important to you and your families because it's you and I that drive the highways of Scott County day in and day out. You've got to ask yourself, do I want to meet (the Defendant) on the highway the way he was driving some evening? Do you want your son or daughter to meet him on the highway?" The defendant maintained the State committed reversible error by comments made in the closing argument.

The defendant's attorney objected to the comments made by the State's Attorney. He argued that the statement made reference to the defendant's possible criminal conduct in the future, namely that of driving while under the influence.

The Appellate Court noted that the State's Attorney evidently decided to "throw care to the wind" in his rebuttal argument. The Court stated that it was tempted to find reversible error in this closing argument. The Appellate Court felt that the trial evidence did not justify an inference that the defendant would engage in criminal conduct in the future and that such speculation was improper.

Should an Appellate Court reverse a jury's findings when such prejudicial remarks are made? These decisions must be made on a case by case basis. In this matter, the Appellate Court felt that considering the closing argument as a whole, the parts presented for review did not so substantially undermine the fairness of the trial as to warrant a reversal. Therefore, the Court affirmed the conviction of the defendant for driving under the influence of alcohol.

Sofball leagues forming
The Granite City Park District is taking registration for men's and coed fall softball at the Wilson Park Office.

The deadline for registration is Friday, Aug. 16. The leagues will start play Sept. 10 and last for six weeks. Men's teams will play on Tuesday and Thursday of each week, while the coed teams will play on each Wednesday and Saturday. The cost per team is $230, which includes softballs.

For more information, call Ray Hoffman at the park office at 877-3059.

GCSC teams forming
Open registration is now being held for both boys and girls 5 years of age and older who wish to join the Granite City Soccer Club. The cost to register is $30 per child.

For more information, or to register, call 876-9000.

Ladies' senior softball
A local women's senior softball team is looking for women age 50 and over who are interested in playing in the Illinois Senior Olympics in September in Springfield. The team is also looking for players interested in playing an exhibition game Oct. 5 as part of the Granite City Centennial Celebration.

Interested players are asked to call Eva Horn at 797-6535 or Betty Arbeiter at 876-9121 as soon as possible.

Coolidge football
The first football practice for seventh- and eighth-graders at Coolidge Middle School will be held at 7:30 a.m. Monday, Aug. 26. Athletes must bring a copy of a recent physical examination and a completed parent permission form to the first practice.

Running shoes, shirt and shorts will be provided for the first three days of practice. Parent permission forms will be available after Aug. 19 in the main office at Coolidge.

Middle School volleyball
Coolidge and Grigsby Middle School volleyball practice will begin 9 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 at the two respective schools. Girls interested in playing must have a current physical and a signed parent permission form before they can practice. Practices will be held from 9 a.m. until noon Aug. 27-29. Practice will begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 30. Parent permission forms and other information may be obtained at the school offices after Aug. 19. The coaches at Coolidge are Michelle Zukas and Cheri Pettillo, and the Grigsby coaches are Connie King and Judy Collins.

state champion basketball and football team at Carlyle and is our hall director. Mike Harrison's from East St. Louis and played for me at Millikin; he works for Illinois Power. Curt Simon coached last year at Centralia. Some of these guys are not even getting paid—they're doing it just because they want to do it."

Support for McKendree football has been equally strong throughout the state, as well as in the St. Louis area. "Pete Margaretis, who coached at Cahokia years ago, works for Riddell (a helmet manufacturer)," Poelker said. "He came down here on his own time for three days to help us. There's not one thing I've seen that's been done halfway. There's no cheating and no cutting corners."

"We could have had 200 players. The tough part is telling young men that we're full. That kind of interest speaks well for the school. This whole area is definitely attractive; it has so much to offer."

Poelker is anxious to see what the Bearcats can accomplish in their first season.

"We're going in knowing that this is a very young football team, and we've got to be responsive to that," Poelker said. "For 96 percent of these kids, it's their first time away from home and the first time they've stepped into a collegiate environment."

"The overriding issue is patience. Our schedule is not eight or nine games, it's 30 games. By the time these guys are juniors, some positive things should start to happen." McKendree's new football team will be ready for full-time use on Aug. 26. The Bearcats' first home game is 1:30 p.m. on Sept. 14 against Olivet Nazarene University.
